AUSBIOTECH 2010 NATIONAL CONFERENCE SPEAKERS' PROFILE

Josh Hexter
Executive Director, In Licensing
BioLineRx
Israel

Josh heads up Corporate In-Licensing at BioLineRx (TASE: BLRX). BioLineRx is a clinical-stage drug development company dedicated to building a robust pipeline of proprietary therapeutics for unmet medical needs. Through partnering with researchers, universities and biotech companies to further the development of promising compounds, BioLineRx successfully advances drugs from early stage discovery and lead generation to advanced clinical trials, regulatory approval and marketing.

Josh also serves as Director of BioLineRx's Early Development Program (EDP) which provides funding for early stage research and development of innovative therapeutics. The EDP combines the cutting-edge research performed in leading research institutions with BioLineRx's proven expertise in the accelerated advancement of drugs into the clinic and beyond, and provides a unique opportunity for researchers and scientists to see their inventions advance rapidly through the professional drug development process.

Prior to BioLineRx Josh worked in private equity and venture capital and served as CEO of a VC-backed startup.

Josh has a BA in History from the University of Wisconsin, a Masters in Business Management from Boston University and a strong professional consulting and management background.
